THE beginning of Waso, the three-month Buddhist Rains Retreat, was celebrated along with the Dhammacakka Day, the Fullmoon of Waso, in pagodas across Myanmar yesterday, with devotees taking precepts from members of the Sangha, offering robes to Buddha images, and reciting religious verses.

The holy day began in the morning at the Shwedagon Pagoda with a ceremony to donate robes to the members of the Sangha at the pagoda. Also, the members of the pagoda's Board of Trustees offered a day meal to the members of the Sangha.

The pagoda was crowded with people beginning from early morning.

Buddhist devotees can take Precepts at the pagoda every Sabbath Day during the three-month Waso, or Monsoon Retreat period.

At the Botahtaung Pagoda, Buddhists and religious associations took part in a ceremony to offer Waso robes to the pagoda at the four entrances of the pagoda. Members of the Sangha also delivered sermons at the ceremony.

Mandalay pagodas teeming with devotees on Fullmoon of Waso

On the Fullmoon of Waso, also known as Dhammacakka Day yesterday, Maha Myatmuni pagoda and other pagodas in Mandalay were teeming with devotees, who flocked to the pagodas since dawn to offer Waso robes and other donations,

All over the city offerings were made to Sanghas at congregation halls in wards and townships and devotees listened to the sermons and recitation of parittas by the Sanghas. Donors were also distributing free food and drinks at the pagodas and congregation halls. At 4 am in Maha Myatmuni Pagoda, the morning ritual of washing the face of the Maha Myatmuni Buddha image was conducted, followed by devotees from throughout the country offering golden robes (gold flakes) to the image, robes, food, water, candle and oil lamps in all corners of the pagoda. At 6 am in front of Yunnan Buddhist monastery on 80th Street, temple monastery trustee board and donors offered dry rations and offertories to 250 Sanghas from Masoyein monastery.

Similarly at 8 am Mandalay University Rector, Pro rectors, teachers, staff, students and devotees took nine precepts from sanghas at Mandalay University Dhammayone (congregation hall) and offered offertories to the sanghas.

In addition to pagodas and religious places, visitors from all over the country were also seen visiting Mandalay palace, cultural museum, U Bein bridge and parks. — Tin Maung (Man Sub Printing House) ■

BUDDHISTS observed the Fullmoon of Waso, also known as Dhammacakka Day, at pagodas in Nay Pyi Taw yesterday, offering Waso robes and flowers, taking meditation, making donations and receiving Precepts from Members of the Sangha.

A ceremony to offer Waso

golden lotus robes was also held at the Uppatasanti Pagoda in the morning, attracting pilgrims, donors, merit-doers and fast keepers in Nay Pyi Taw and its nearby townships and villages.

Similarly, the Thatta Thatta Maha Bodhi Pagoda in Ottara-thiri Township, and the Datusaya Pagoda and the Maha Muni Buddha Image in its Pagoda compound in Zabuthiri Township were also crowded with visitors.

The Koe Khan Gyi Pagoda and the Loka Marazein Pagoda in Pinyinmana Township also held Waso golden lotus robe offering ceremonies in the morning and were crowded with pilgrims, donors, merit-doers and fast keepers from various places. In the evening, the Uppatasanti Pagoda held a 9,000 oil lamp festival, and was crowded with visitors. In the auspicious Waso-Dhammacakka Day, chanting groups recited the Dhammacakkapavattana Sutta.

The Fullmoon of Waso associates with the four great noble and significant events related to the precious life of the Omniscient Gotama Buddha.

On that holy day, the Buddha-to-be (the Gotama Buddha) took pregnancy in the womb of Queen Maya, wife of his Majesty Sudhodana of Kapilavatthu Kingdom, and also on that holy day at the age of 29, the Buddha-to-be renounced the world, and after having full attainment of the Buddhahood, the Gotama Buddha preached His first great sermon, Dhammacakkapavattana Sutta to His five disciples, in which He explained the Four Noble Truths and the Noble-Eightfold Path, on the Fullmoon of Waso.

All five disciples received ordination and formed the first nucleus of the holy brotherhood of disciples known as the Sangha.

And also, on the Fullmoon of Waso, the Omniscient Buddha performed the great miracle called the Twin Miracle. The reason for this was to dispel the wrong views of heretics and to prove that He possessed the attributes of a Buddha. — Han Lin Naing ■

The same ceremonies were held at pagodas throughout Yangon yesterday. On this day, over 2600 years ago, the Buddha preached his first sermon, known as the Dhammacakka which means "Setting in motion the Wheel of Truth".

A Dhammacakkapavattana Sutta recitation was also held at pagodas across the country.

On this auspicious day for Buddhists, pagodas were teeming with Buddhist devotees from morning to night. The Fullmoon of Waso is highly significant for Buddhists because this is the day that the Buddha was conceived. Later in his life, on this day, the Buddha renounced worldly pleasures.

During the three-month period of the Monsoon Retreat for Buddhist monks, pagoda Ovadacariya (patron) Sayadaws will administer sermons to devotees in the Ancient Buddha Images Hall at Shwedagon Pagoda.

The similar ceremonies were held yesterday at the Maha Wizaya Pagoda, the Botahtaung Kyeikdayup Pagoda, the Thiri Mingalar Kaba Aye Pagoda, the Kyeikwaing Pagoda, the Buddha Tooth Relics Pagoda in Yangon.

The Dhammacakka Festival marks the Buddha's delivery of his First Sermon, known as Setting in Motion the Wheel of Truth (Dhammacakkapavattana Sutta), in the Deer Park at Isipatana, near Benares in India.

He delivered this first sermon to the five ascetics with whom he had practiced severe austerities for five years.

Some months before then, when he had concluded that these ascetic practices did not produce the results he was seeking, these ascetics decided to leave him because they felt he had abandoned the holy way of life.

Left alone, the Buddha chose to follow a middle path between indulgence in sensual pleasures and the practice of self-mortification. This resulted in his attainment of Enlightenment and his discovery of the Four Noble Truths and the Noble Eightfold Path.—Yi Yi Myint/Ohmar Thant ■

The National Committee on Prevention and Response to Conflict- Related Sexual Violence against women and representatives of the UN agencies concerned held a third coordination meeting on the draft work plan of the committee.

At the meeting, Deputy Minister for Border Affairs, members of the committee and representatives of the UNFPA and UN Women discussed the draft action plan with remarks from the ministries concerned and gave suggestions.

Union Minister for Social Welfare, Relief and Resettlement Dr Win Myat Aye said the committee would put the suggestions on record and would complete the agreed amendments within the time frame.

The Joint Communique on Prevention and Response to Conflict Related Sexual Violence on 7 December 2018 in New York City.

The joint communique was signed by Myanmar's Permanent Representative to the UN and Ms Pramila Patten, the United Nations Special Representative on Sexual Violence in Conflict and Under-Secretary-General of the United Nations.

To implement this Joint

Communique, the National Committee was formed, and laid down the five tasks.

Among its five tasks, the National Committee would implement the prioritized sectors with added momentum. The committee is also tasked with drafting a national-level work plan with the technical assistance and suggestions of the United nations and the Office of the UNSG Special Envoy on Conflict Related Sexual Violence.

The progress of the work undertakings will be acknowledged to the UN and international community. The Union Minister also pointed out to carry out the public awareness activities on preventing the sexual violence against women through media in cooperation with the Ministry of Information. —MNA ■

Plans afoot to open more gates in Yangon's Aungmingala Bus Terminal

By Nyein Nyein

THE YANGON City Development Committee currently is planning to add more bus gates to the terminal, said U Than, joint secretary, YCDC.

"Plans are under way to add new bus gates for the convenience of highway buses operating in Bago and Taninthayi regions as well as Mon State," he told mediapersons at the YCDC press conference on 15 July.

He said the plan to open more bus gates has been included in the urban development master plan for Yangon, and tenders will be invited for the project and the bidding will be conducted in a transparent manner. The project will be implemented in stages on a 33-acre plot of land, he added.

At present, there are two highway bus terminals in Yangon — Aungmingala and Dagon Ayeya. The Yangon City Development Committee earns approximately K180 million annually in rent from shops and bus gates at the two highway bus terminals, said U Maung Maung Soe, the Yangon Region Development Affairs Minister.

"The Aungmingala Highway Bus Terminal currently has 616 shops and 259 bus gates. The YCDC collects a monthly rental of K2,000-K7,000 from shops, based on their size, earning K85.113 million a year. It collects a monthly rental of K3,000-K7,000 per bus gate, earning K17.046 million per year. The annual income generated from the YCDC's leasing out of shops and bus gates at the terminal exceeds K100 million," he said.

"Currently, there are 209 shops and 82 bus gates at the Dagon Ayeya Highway Bus Terminal in Hline-thaya Township. The YCDC collects a monthly rental of K3,000-K5,500 from shops, depending on their size, earning approximately over K72.5 million per year. It collects a monthly rental of K5,500 per bus gate, earning over K5.4 million per year. The annual income thus generated exceeds K78.2 million," he added. ■

Improving the quality of education through autonomy of universities

THE Union Government is working towards helping Yangon University become an institution that offers quality education and produces well-rounded individuals.

Only when universities have autonomy can our country's education system develop and become complete. Such a system would involve each university building on its own characteristics and strengths.

To reach that goal, the Yangon University needs to play a leading role in implementing the country's education system, which has been designed in accordance with the 2015 law amending the 2014 National Education Law.

The centenary of Yangon University in 2020 is a reminder to bring back its past glory.

At a recent meeting in preparation for the centenary celebrations, the State Counsellor spoke of quality education, referring to Yangon University as the alma mater capable of producing skilled human resources.

The Yangon University needs to play a leading role in implementing the country's education system, which has been designed in accordance with the 2015 law amending the 2014 National Education Law.

respect to the quality of education. Its name was well-known across Asia.

Yangon University was legitimately founded in December, 1920, and it will observe its centenary on 1 December, 2020. This once magnificent and prestigious university faced a decline and the bustle in its halls ceased due to an epoch of misfortune. Under the leadership of the Union Government, educational experts are now working towards restoring its former glory.

We are confident that the all-out efforts of Yangon University alumni, who once obtained quality education within its walls, under the leadership of the Union Government, will help the varsity reclaim its rightful position in the centenary period.

Resurrecting the historic and once prestigious university is a move aimed at the improvement of the standard of education in the country so its people can draw level with the world.

Change in electricity bill payments, and their view

Electric production costs K110 to K115 per unit and if the consumer purchases for K35 then there is a K80 gap. As a result, the State has to subsidize about K800-K900 billion a year.

Deputy Minister Dr Tun Naing

By Shin Min

U Ko Ko: Could you give us an economic or managerial perspective on the Deputy Minister's discussion?

Dr Aung Tun Thet: The focus of this discussion is the word 'subsidy'. Cross subsidy is related to electricity and is where the range is raised for businesses and the finance collected from them is distributed to the general public.

Businesses have to pay more and lowering the rates for consumers benefits them. High expenditures for businesses are one part. To recap, it won't be noticeable for someone who uses less lighting. There would be no profit or losses.

However, it will be very noticeable for someone who opens 10 air-conditioners. It's convenient. What happens is that is we businesses bearing the brunt of people using ten air-cons. This is something to ponder on.

Of course, commodity prices will inevitably rise. Commonly in our country, other prices will rise before the electricity rate is increased. We need to be wary of that. Before, when staff salary would increase, commodity prices increased first so the new salary was all spent. How will authorities prevent that effect?

Another fact is that economists sometimes make emotional analyses when it comes to predicting costs. They won't like this being said.

There are people who use mobile phones everyday but don't put its costs in their heads. Compare the costs between using a phone and using electricity over 24 hours. No one will look at it like that. They will say they are using on their own will and to keep out of their matters.

Now, the electric bill will rise because of the government. You need to explain this so the public can accept it. There needs to be short, medium and long term solutions after increasing the price. How much will supply follow to meet the increase in demand.

Then we have to consider generation, distribution and consumption of electricity. The ministry is inviting foreign investment too. If decreasing the subsidy is meant to create incentives for big foreign companies investing here then we can expect supply to increase.

The supply in our country will increase without a doubt but there are those emotional complications. Crowds of people will protest against any move of hydroelectric power and fossil fuel is another matter.

People mention 'solar' when talking about costs but it's overall cost is still too high. Our country is actually abundant in hydropower but it has its own set of difficulties. But I hope the subsidy is made for adjustment.

The people of Myanmar need to understand that it's not just the ministry that will be producing electricity. The private sector will be in on it as well. I believe if the Union Government is involved then we will overcome the subsidy matter in a short period of time.

Deputy Minister: I want to discuss on the same topic as Dr Aung Tun Thet. Daw Khaing Khaing Nwe asked if we can promise there will be no more power cuts and the doctor asked if we can scale up production.

A few days ago, we called for open tender on a 1,200 MW power plant project in the state newspapers, inviting both domestic and foreign investors. I presume the public has seen these ads as well. The investors must also be aware of the changes to the electric rates too. We hope that investors will boldly take a step for this endeavor.

Replying to Sayama's question on whether the electric generation will increase, it will get better than the current situation. This includes voltage stability. The old transformers at the electric substations had to be turned off when regulating them and it was all manual.

Consumers want electric supply and voltage to be steady. The truth is voltage is always changing and to regulate it requires automatic systems. Authorities are now installing more transformers with automatic systems. They weren't so easy to acquire in the past as they cost a lot.

In order to provide better services in the future we need to generate more income. Then we can invest in better machinery and provide more stable voltages to the consumer. This is why the electricity rates have been changed. It's to push forward in that direction.

U Ko Ko: After announcing the changes in the meter prices there were calls for tenders too. They are related. Could you tell us if changing the price was intended to give independent power producers (IPPs) some sort of incentive?

Deputy Minister: Yes, because for domestic and foreign investors, only 20 to 30 per cent of their project costs for constructing power plants is their own money. The remaining 70 or 80 per cent is acquired from bank loans.

The banks counter check them by asking if the project they are investing in has secure annual income in order to repay the bank. This also becomes a question for the IPP to ask the ministry if they can afford the electricity they will produce.

If the ministry has high subsidy rates every year and is unable to pay the electricity rates in the long run, well, it becomes a high risk venture for the IPPs. No one will come to such a volatile situation. There aren't a lot of banks that will lend to IPPs either, who won't come invest without a loan.

When the banks see that the electricity rates have changed then they will know that the ministry will be able to purchase electricity from the IPPs over a long period. Hence, they will approve the loans and IPPs will come in to invest.

They have shown interest since three to four years ago because investors see the opportunity in Myanmar's inadequate power supply status and the large number of people without access to electricity.

However, they saw that the rate the ministry is redistributing the electricity is different from the rate purchased from them and they viewed this as a high risk. Now, we are able to reduce the challenges and hopefully increase investment to fulfil the electric demand.

Dr Aung Tun Thet: When we amend the subsidy and discuss this with the IPPs, this creates a good situation in our favour which will allow the Myanmar Investment Commission to act more easily.

We are the priority sector and support the electric sector to drive sustainable development for the nation. Now that the ministry has adjusted the subsidy there is all the more reason for investors to come in.

U Ko Ko: Industrial zones demand a stable and steady electric supply. They don't want to rely on standby generators anymore. Can you give your opinion on this, Sayama?

hospitals and clinics near where they live, so they request cottage hospitals to be constructed nearby. Now, construction costs around K500 million and building two would cost a billion kyats. If we had to subsidize K500 billion then consider how many hospitals we'd be able to build.

Hluttaw representatives are asking the State for hospitals and schools that the people and the nation greatly require but the ministries are unable to construct them. Why? Because the subsidy to the electric sector is taken out of the Union budget. The budget that has to be used for development is put into the subsidization of the electric sector every year.

Some suggest using loans to solve this issue. We would need to borrow US$800 million to construct a 500 MW electric station. Even if construction was completed in a year it would only be enough for that one year. We would have to borrow another eight hundred million dollars next year. And all those loans would have to be repaid with public revenue.

Then we must ask what difference it will make when everyone has to bear the rising loan repayments just to decrease the payments for their electric bill.

Another thing is while the people with electric access are thinking of ways to keep the electric rates the same, there are still 55 per cent of citizens who have no access and the budget to link them up is needed.

Everyone should be given equal opportunities. Which is why even if electric access is not yet perfect, we must think for those people who do not have access to electricity.

We must also reduce the burden of repaying massive loans. Setting appropriate rates from each household will strengthen the Union budget. Instead of borrowing from someone else and being restricted, if we used our own budget, we can achieve better and faster management.

Over 1,000 bus stops being set up in Yangon: official

By Nyein Nyein

OVER 1,000 bus stops are being set up in Yangon in three zones, said U Lin Khaing, Secretary, the Yangon City Development Committee's Engineering Department (Roads and Bridges).

He made the remarks at a press conference on the YCDC, which was held at the Yangon City Hall on 15 July.

For the project, Yangon has been divided into three zones. The first zone includes six townships in downtown and Kamayut, Hline, Mayangon, Yankin, South Okkalapa, and Thingyangyun townships. The FMIDecaux Company, which won the bidding, will install 500 bus stops in the townships, of which, over 270 have been constructed, according to the Yangon City Development Committee.

The second zone includes Hlinethaya, Shwepyitha, Insein, Mingaladon, and North Okkalapa townships. Another company which succeeded in the bidding will install 250 bus stops in the townships. The project at Hlinethaya Township has begun.

The third zone includes East Dagon, Dagon Seikkan, Dawbon, Thakayta, South

Dagon, and North Dago townships. Over 400 bus stops will be set up in the zone by another company.

At present, the YCDC and the companies are preparing to sign an agreement on the installation of bus stops. There are about 1,850 bus stops across commercial hub Yangon. The YCDC will construct the remaining bus stops.

YCDC: 90% of Yangon to get drinking water supply by 2025

By Nyein Nyein

AROUND 45 per cent of people living in Yangon Region have access to drinking water, and the Yangon City Development Committee is aiming to increase the water supply network to cover 90 per cent of the region's population by 2025, said U Than, Joint Secretary, YCDC.

"We are carrying out a project to expand the drinking water supply network to increase coverage to 90 per cent of the region from the current 45 per cent by 2025," said U Than at a press conference on YCDC's performance, held on 15 July at the Yangon City Hall.

At present, Gyobu, Phugyi, and Ngamoeyeik reservoirs are the main sources of water supply in Yangon. To expand the water distribution network, projects are under way at Lagunpyin and Kokkowa, which are slated to be completed in 2025, and they will help ensure sufficient water supply in the region, according to the YCDC.

In addition, the YCDC is creating water supply resources to provide adequate drinking water to Yangonites and is taking measures to reduce wastage in urban water distribution, with the assistance of international development donors.

"Globally, wastage in water distribution is registered at only 3 per cent, whereas Yangon has 40-45 per cent wastage in water distribution, owing to water pipe leakage and unsystematic water consumption. Having water meters installed in homes could reduce bills, and Myanmar has started to adopt this system," said U Than. The population of Yangon is expected to grow from 5.2 million to cross 10 million in 2040, and therefore, the committee is expanding the water supply network and coverage.

Myanmar border trade reaches $8.02 bln in current FY MYANMAR'S border trade with neighboring nations reached US$8.02 billion between 1 October and 5 July in the 2018-2019 Fiscal Year, an increase of $1.15 billion compared with the same period in the previous fiscal, according to figures provided by the Ministry of Commerce.

The country's exports via the border gates amounted to $5.64 billion, while imports were valued at $2.38 billion. During the same period in the last FY, border trade had touched $6.87 billion. Trade at Muse, the major border trade camp, has declined slightly to $3.89 billion. During the same period last year, trade at Muse was valued at $4.72 billion, down $827 million this year.

Myanmar mainly conducts border trade with neighboring China through Muse, Lwejel, Chinshwehaw, Kanpikete, and Kengtung. Trade with Thailand is carried out through Tachilek, Myawady, Kawthoung, Myeik, Hteekhee, Mawtaung, and Maese.

Myanmar also conducts border trade with Bangladesh through Sit-tway and Maungtaw, and with India through Tamu, Reed, and Thantlang border gates.

The country mainly exports agricultural products, animal products, fisheries, minerals, and forest products, while it imports capital goods, intermediate goods, and consumer goods.—Zwe

Daiwa Securities sets up venture fund in Myanmar

MAJOR JAPANESE brokerage Daiwa Securities Group Inc has established a venture capital fund in Myanmar to invest in promising unlisted firms mainly in the consumer products and services sector as well as the infrastructure field.

Daiwa's two wholly owned subsidiaries — Daiwa PI Partners Co. and Daiwa Corporate Investment Co — have set up the $30 million Daiwa Myanmar Growth Fund LP to become the first Japanese financial institution to create such a venture fund exclusively tailored to unlisted firms in Myanmar, Daiwa Securities spokesmen told NNA on Friday.

Japan's Taiyo Life Insurance Co will partner with the fund, which is scheduled to operate in the next 12 years, they said.

The fund plans to inject capital equivalent to stakes of 10 to 30 per cent in ventures for an investment period of up to five years while sending board members to support management, the two Daiwa subsidiaries, said in a joint statement.

Myanmar Securities Exchange Centre Co, an equally owned joint venture between Daiwa Securities Group and Myanmar Economic Bank, will assist firms in the sectors going public, the statement said.

Daiwa Securities Group is an investor in Yangon Stock Exchange Joint-Venture Co, which opened the local bourse in 2015.—NNA/Kyodo News

Consumer goods imports decline 7.8% this FY

THE value of consumer goods imported by Myanmar between 1 October and 5 July in the current fiscal has reached US$2.528 billion, a decline of $200 million, or 7.8 per cent, compared to the year-ago period, according to the Ministry of Commerce.

The total figure includes imports of $36.270 million by the public sector and $2.49 billion by the private sector. In the 2018-2019FY, imports of consumer goods by the two sectors have shown a continuous decline compared with the previous fiscal. During the same period in the last FY, Myanmar imported consumer goods worth $2.74 billion, with public sector imports crossing $65.1 million and private sector imports reaching almost $2.67 billion. In the first week of this month, consumer goods imports totalled $224.41 million, with the public sector importing products worth $0.81 million and private importers buying goods valued at $223.6 million. The country's consumer goods imports totalled $2.6 billion during the mini-budget period (April-September, 2018).

Daiwa House launches 1st logistics base in Viet Nam

HO CHI MINH CITY — Japanese homebuilder Daiwa House Industry Co. has opened its first logistics base in Vietnam for the rental of warehousing space to forwarders as part of investment in Asia to meet rising Japanese demand for local products.

Daiwa House on Monday launched the base in LocAnBinh Son Industrial Park in Dong Nai Province, some 40 kilometers east of Ho Chi Minh City, and expects to open another by February 2020, with a total investment of up to 3.3 billion yen ($30.6 million), Tatsuya Urakawa, the company's managing executive director, told NNA.

According to Urakawa, the new base, having a total floor space of 36,000 square meters, maintains the temperature as low as minus 60 °C, which is adjustable to other ranges such as 10-25 °C or 0-10

°C according to customer needs. Daiwa House said it hopes the completion of the new facilities with freezers would contribute to expanding the cold-chain network in the region and help increase transportation of frozen food to Japan. The Daiwa House group has so far developed logistics facilities in Thailand, Indonesia and Malaysia, and "is planning (another) in Singapore and Australia," Urakawa said, adding that he expects the expansion of the logistics network to help Japan cope with falling food self-sufficiency. The group placed member countries of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations, better known as ASEAN, as a core area of its overseas business and expects to expand its foreign sales to 400 billion yen by fiscal 2021 from 278 billion yen in fiscal 2018 ended last March, according to Daiwa's sixth medium-term management plan released in May. —Kyodo News ■

About 50,000 Bitpoint Japan customers had cryptocurrency stolen

TOKYO — Cryptocurrency exchange operator Bitpoint Japan Co said Tuesday that around half of its 110,000 customers have been victimized by the recent hacking in which digital currencies worth 3.02 billion yen ($27 million) were stolen.

Bitpoint Japan President Genki Oda apologized for the incident at a Tokyo press conference and vowed to fully return the stolen assets in virtual currencies after the company resumes services that were suspended following Thursday's hacking.

But he said the timing of restarting the suspended services and transactions remains unclear, as the theft is still being investigated.

In addition to the 3.02 billion yen hacked in Japan, Bitpoint has said an additional 250 million yen worth of digital currencies have been stolen at overseas exchanges that use its trading system.

The company said it reported the initial theft to police on Friday morning. —Kyodo News ■

Wave Money announces stellar growth in H1 2019

WAVE Money, the leading provider of mobile financial services in Myanmar, reported phenomenal growth in the first half of 2019. From January to June, the company paid 22 Billion Myanmar Kyat (US$ 15 Million) in agent commission, which was more than triple compared to the same period last year (US$ 4 million). In addition, Wave Money moved approximately 2.6 Trillion Myanmar Kyat (US$ 1.7 billion) in remittance in the first six months of 2019.

Wave Money operates the largest financial services network in Myanmar and has added 5,000 agents to its network in the first half of the year. Now with more than 45,000 agents throughout Myanmar, Wave Money has a foothold in 89 per cent of the country. There are Wave Shops in 293 out of the total 330 townships, covering 85 per cent of rural Myanmar.

“Wave Money is very proud that the first half of the year 2019 shows a significant increase in our results such as agent network, commissions, and volume growth. We are committed to continuing to drive financial inclusion in Myanmar by deeper rural expansion and increased volume growth in the second half of 2019” said Brad Jones, Wave Money CEO.

Safeguard the growth of customers and mobile money usage

As of June 2019, more than 11 million people in Myanmar have used the Wave Money platform to send and receive money, buy airtime, pay utility bills and process digital payments. Since entering the market, the company has established itself as the most trusted mobile financial service provider in the country, being a license holder under the Mobile Financial Services Regulation which has strict guidelines to safeguard the funds of agents and customers.

“The usage of mobile money continues to grow dramatically in Myanmar. For people who send and receive money, usage of mobile money has increased from 0.8% in 2016 to 80% in 2019 as shown by the recent survey conducted by Kantar TNS. Myanmar has reached a point of mobile money maturity that is quicker than most other markets who have implemented similar businesses,” Brad Jones added.

Financial inclusion to a new level

In March, Wave Money

and Myanma Economic Bank (MEB) made pension payments more convenient for pensioners through a Digital Pension Disbursement Partnership. The partnership takes Wave Money’s commitment to financial inclusion to a new level, enabling government retirees in Myanmar to easily and securely access their pension through from more than 45,000 Wave Shops around the country, any day of the week.

Empowering women also remains high on Wave Money's financial inclusion agenda. In April, the company announced its partnership in the GSMA Connected Women Programme in line with the vision to "Create a Fairer Future for Myanmar". This reinforces a long-standing social impact commitment to enable women so they can reap the benefits of the booming mobile economy.

For its initiative to help increase financial literacy for women in Myanmar, Wave Money has received global brand recognition from Mobile World Congress 2019 and was nominated for "Best Mobile Innovation for Women in Emerging Markets". It'sShwe Toe app is a unique financial education mobile app developed in partnership with UNCDF. Wave Money also won the "Brand Leadership Award" at the CMO Asia Award early this year for its innovative and effective marketing practice in Myanmar. As Wave Money's vision is to "Create a Fairer Future for Myanmar", Wave Money aims to surpass last year's results for even greater growth and increased positive impact for the people in Myanmar for the second half of the year 2019.—GNLM

'Microfinance Success Asia' event coming to Myanmar for the first time

FIRST ever 'Microfinance Success Asia' event is reported to be held in Park Royal Yangon from 23 to 24 July 2019. The event is organized by Singapore-based HBZ Events in consultation with Myanmar Microfinance Association (MMFA).

Microfinance Success Asia focuses on microfinance in emerging Asian economies, offering delegates a world-class conference, a market-leading exhibition and networking opportunities.

According to the organizers, more than 150 attendees are expected to attend the event including Myanmar government officials and representatives from the finance sector specifically microfinance institutions (MFIs), SME and entrepreneurship promotion agencies, banks, farmers associations, technology companies, consultancy companies, financial cooperative experts, development partners as well as policy makers and regulators.

Managing Sustainability & Impact in a Rapidly Evolving Microfinance Sector

Under the theme of 'Managing Sustainability & Impact in a Rapidly Evolving Microfinance Sector' Microfinance Success Asia 2019 will provide a forum for stakeholders to tackle issues and share successes that are at the forefront of the industry. It will also provide opportunities for participants to engage in professional exchanges and to network with players from all sectors of the industry. Herman Zaidin, Managing Director of HBZ Event said, "This is a very timely event for Myanmar as well as other emerging Asian countries where microfinance plays a critical role in economic empowerment. We invite all stakeholders to join us in this cornerstone event which will be attended by delegates from over 15 countries."

Key topics which will be discussed at the event include microfinance industry regulations, best practices for MFIs to enjoy sustainable growth, designing microfinance products that are localized to fit culture and social norms, digitalization of processes in microfinance and opportunities in the Myanmar microfinance sector. Some of the industry leaders that will speak at the event include Mr Gonzalo

Gonzalez A, CEO, Dawn Microfinance and Chair of MMFA ICT Working Group; Daw Phyu Yam-in Myat, Managing Director, Myanmar Development Partners Co, Ltd and a member of MMFA's leadership team; Said Syed Mamun Quader, Group Managing Director, Southtech; Cameron Goldie-Scott, CEO, Musoni and Alison Grun, Regional Director Asia Pacific at Software Group.

The event is available only to registered delegates and partners. Microfinance Success Asia 2019 claim to be the first event in the region to have its own dedicated app for both Android and Apple platforms, in line with the dynamic and fast-evolving microfinance sector that has identified digitalization as one of its core tenets. Participants can expect an engaging experience through a host of seamless features such as live polls, Q&As, digital agenda and guide, opportunities for sponsors and exhibitors. The networking experience will be seamless and convenient through the app contacts features leading to ease of forming new relationships.

Microfinance in Myanmar

The demand for microfinance is high in Myanmar. However, few institutions had provided microcredit in the past and unmet demand is estimated by industry experts at close to US$ 1 billion (UNCDF 2012). In November 2011, the government adopted a new Microfinance Law as well as Notification 277 and Instructions. This framework allows local and foreign investors to establish fully privately owned MFIs.

According to "Financial Inclusion in Asia: An Overview by Meghana Ayyagari & Thorsten Beck, 23 December 2015" 1.7 billion people are unbanked, globally. In Asia, less than 27% of adults and only 33% of enterprises have an account or a line of credit or loan from a financial institution.

As can be seen in "Infographic Country Brief Myanmar" 8.8 million of the population in Myanmar own businesses. 56% of enterprises in Myanmar do not have a saving/checking account. Only 7% of SMEs have a line of credit. 52% of businesses identified access to finance as an obstacle. These figures as well as many others in the infographic point to the potential for microfinance in Myanmar and the "Microfinance Success Asia 2019 is expected to play a role in pointing out more potentials and possibilities. — Myanmar Microfinance Association

GV Athletic celebrate MFF Warrix Futsal Cup 2019 (Mandalay) victory

AN awards ceremony for the MFF Warrix Futsal Cup 2019 (Mandalay) was held yesterday at the Mandalay Thiri Stadium in Mandalay.

In the final match of the Cup, GV Athletic beat AKS F.C. (A) with a 6-0 score. The awards ceremony was held after the final match, and the first one to receive a gift was the match referee.

Nyi Nyi Thant of GV Athletic team received the 'best goalkeeper' award, Thant Sin Tun from AKS (A) got the 'best player' award, and the GV Athletic team won the 'best fair play' award.

The president of the Myanmar Football Federation, U Zaw Zaw, presented the GV Athletic team K3 million in cash prize and individual medals. Then, Mandalay Region Chief Minister Dr Zaw Myint Maung presented the MFF Warrix Futsal Cup 2019 (Mandalay) to the team.

Afterwards, the first runner-up AKS F.C. (A) was awarded K2 million, the second runner-up Linn Latt received K1 million, and the third runner-up JZM F.C. (A) walked away with K500,000 in cash prize.

Lampard 'won't look backwards' as he takes over Chelsea

YOKOHAMA (Japan)— Chelsea legend Frank Lampard said Tuesday he won't be looking backwards as he takes on possibly the biggest challenge of his career: managing his former team.

Speaking in Japan where the Blues are playing two friendlies, Lampard said he was "very happy" with his squad but expects to work the team hard during the pre-season.

"For me the story is not to look backwards," said Lampard, whose return to his former club as head coach was confirmed earlier this month.

"I know the club very well, I know the players very well. I have my own way that I want to work with the players," he told reporters in Yokohama, where Chelsea will face Japan's Kawasaki Frontale on 19 July.

Lampard acknowledged taking on leadership of the Blues will be a major undertaking, with Chelsea having lost their best player of recent times, Eden Hazard, to Real Madrid last month, and serving a two-window transfer ban that prevents him from making new signings.

But he said there was no reason to dwell on the ban.

"I think I inherited very good players. We cannot bring in any players we know that... But I'm very happy with the squad.

"My job now is to work hard in pre-season with them. I like my teams to play with a lot of energy and speed, with and without the ball, so I want to win it back as quickly as we can," he said.

Chelsea's new $72 million signing, Christian Pulisic, is listed as one of the team members visiting Japan, but it was not year clear when he will arrive.

Lampard declined to reveal the line-up for the two friendlies on Chelsea's calendar, which include a much-anticipated face-off against Barcelona on July 23.

American international Pulisic signed a five-and-a-half year contract with Chelsea in January but was immediately loaned back to Germany to finish the season at Borussia Dortmund.

Lampard won 13 trophies in 13 years and became Chelsea's all-time leading marksmen with 211 goals from midfield during a decorated playing career at Stamford Bridge.

But he has a lot to prove in his new role. The former England midfielder has just one season of managerial experience having led Derby County to the Championship play-off final in May, when they were beaten by Aston Villa.

WLC to host 'King of Nine Limbs' in Mandalay on 2 August

THE World Lethwei Championship will host the 'King of Nine Limbs' event at 5 p.m on 2 August at the Mandalay Thiri Stadium in Mandalay, according to the WLC website.

The main event will be a bout between Dave Leduc and Seth Baczynski.

The co-main event will feature Artur Saladiak and Sasha Moisa.

The other bouts included in the event are Myanmar's Mite Yine vs Thailand's O Top, Viet Nam's Nguyen Tran Duy Nhat vs Malaysia's Izat Zaki, Myanmar's Hein Tun Tun Aung vs Linn Het Aung, and Myanmar's Htet Naing Aung vs Sai Maung Maung.

The first women's division bout will also be included in the event, in which Muay Thai expert Souris Manfredi will make her Lethwei debut.

She will face Cambodia's highest ranked female fighter Eh Yanut, the daughter of legendary kickboxer Eh Phutong.

The event includes two prelims of Myanmar fighters — Paing Htet Aung vs Aung Paing and Saw El Kaluu vs Saw Lin Lin.

The World Lethwei Championship has recently announced that Dave Leduc will be making his promotional debut against UFC veteran Seth Baczynski under the vacant cruiserweight (79 to 84kg) World Lethwei Championship.

Artur Saladiak will also defend his Light Middleweight title for the first time against Sasha Moisa.

U Zay Thiha, the WLC chairman, was quoted as saying that the upcoming event will be the biggest in Lethwei history by the The Body Lock website. The event will be streamed live on Canal+ and UFC Fight Pass.
